

2:08-CV-00486-EFB

SECOND DECLARATION OF
JAMES C. HARRISON IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

EXHIBIT A

- March 2008
- February 2008
- January 2008
- December 2007
- November 2007
- October 2007

RSS feeds

-  Google
- Add to MyYahoo! homepage
- RSS .91
- RSS 1.0
- RSS 2.0
- Syndicate this site (XML)

« State GOP touts Meg Whitman's new post | Main | Dems meet for June pre-endorsements »

March 14, 2008

Mark Leno unveils first Senate ad

Assemblyman Mark Leno, who along with former Assemblyman Joe Nation is challenging Sen. Carole Migden for state Senate, is the first of the three Democrats to unveil a television ad.

His campaign manager did not immediately return a call to find out how much the campaign was spending to air the ad, as advertising on Bay Area television is an expensive endeavor.

The 30-second TV spot is mostly positive in nature, featuring the San Francisco assemblyman speaking directly into the camera about lobbying money, ethics reform and universal healthcare.

UPDATE: One reader points out that Leno does say in the ad, "Politicians don't need to raise their voices, they need to raise their standards," a possible dig at Migden, who is not known to be soft-spoken.

Watch it below:

COMMENTS

There are no comments posted so far.

Be the first to add a comment.

Back to top

Copyright © 2007. All Rights Reserved. Sacbee.com | Privacy Policy | Terms of Use